THE

AXE AND SHIELD

1968

Published by the Students of

Chester T. Lane Junior High School

Fort Wayne, Indiana

Volume III

1967-68

Dedication

We, the Axe and Shield staff of 1967-68,

Pete Van Scoik,

Liz Kortz,

Julie Blackwell,

Ann Richardson,

Sue Boone,

Debbie Denny,

Bruce Skinner,

Rob Turner,

Jane Mildred,

and Molly Shambaugh,

wish to dedicate this yearbook to the athletes and coaches of this year's teams of Lane Junior High for the hard work, successes, trophies, and honors they have brought to our school. We thus present this book for the students, faculty, and community as a record and remembrance of the 1967-68 school year at Chester T. Lane Junior High School.

Theme

The yearbook staff takes a tip from the Travel Club and presents a year's trip through Viking country as the Norsemen explore the lands of learning and activity at Chester T. Lane Junior High School.

The members of the Travel Club are (SEATED) C. Scott, D. Wolf, C. Elster, (STANDING) G. Richter, M. Welchel, J. Payton, Mrs. Carlson, sponsor, S. Jennings,

M. Scott, D. Gump, M. Conley, R. Button, V. Boswell, S. Winter, and D. Barr.

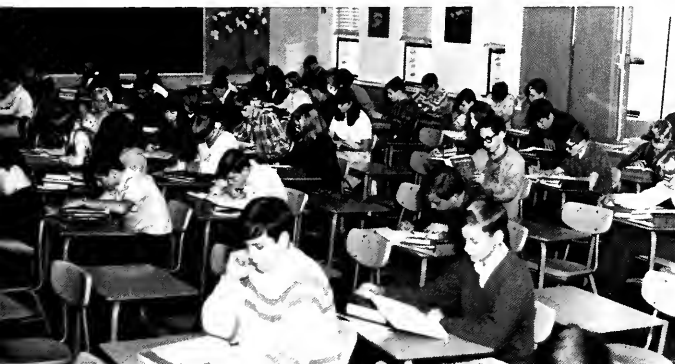

Physical exercise is as much a part of the day as any of the other classes in academics, fine arts, and industrial and home arts. The students are thus able to build and strengthen their bodies as they do their minds.

Vikings explore new worlds of learning as they travel thru each day . . .

Under the watchful, directing eyes of Mrs. Hults, most of the ninth grade students in study hall do homework, research, projects, or recreational reading as they begin to develop good study habits.

Of course, the students need good, wholesome fuel and a chance to socialize with friends in the middle of the day.

Exploring the vast realm of mathematics is a challenge that becomes easier with practice. Mrs. Sevier's students demonstrate their skills to the rest of the class as they gain more confidence and experience in numerical computation.

... analyze and compute many problems of algebra, mathematics and science ...

Understanding algebra comes a little easier when each student mathematician has to show and explain problems to the rest of the class. He must learn, understand, and know in order to explain clearly.

Lab experiments help students to see and comprehend more of the make up of the world around them. Some of Mr. Andrews' biology students give demonstrations for the rest of the class.

Safety in experimentation is taught and learned along with facts as these students explore the fields of science. They analyze and study to better know the elements of their surroundings and to be more equipped to live with them.

A tape recorder as Pat Cleary is using is a helpful item in a foreign language class. Students can then hear themselves to check their pronunciations and also listen to the language as spoken by the natives of the country. This aids their comprehension and ability to communicate in another language of the world.

Mr. Graham explains the use of the reading lab to seventh graders who seek to improve their reading speed and comprehension through practice and training that is individually geared to each student in the developmental reading class.

... build communication skills in reading, writing, speaking thru clubs, classes ...

To get acquainted with authors of significance not covered in normal class schedules is what Jack Fletter, Becky Munro, Barb Steele, Sue Williams, and Diane Gaskill gain from their Great Books Discussion Club sponsored by Mr. Braun.

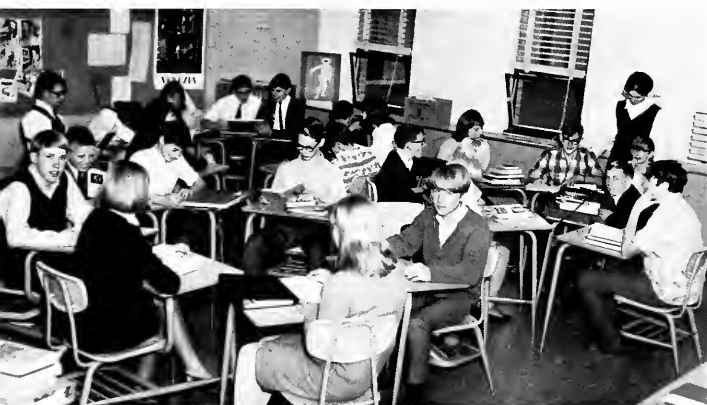

Ken Sedding, Jeff Bracht, and Bob Schwartz, with sponsor Mrs. Taylor of the Oral Reading Club improve their skills in the art of reading aloud more dramatically and successfully.

Miss Nichols leads her history class through the exploration of past generations around the world. To bring the study to life, one of the many projects which they work on is illustrating various characters of other times and places.

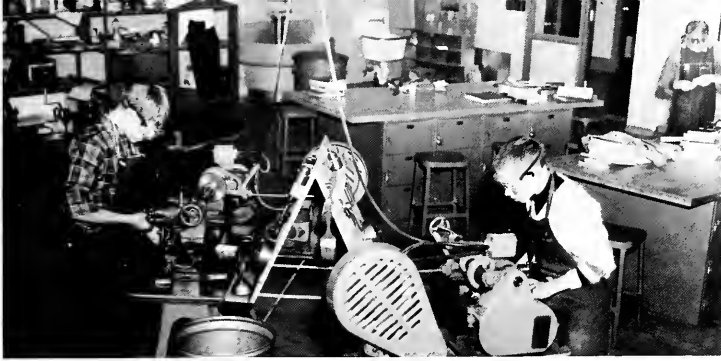

*... reflect upon past, present civilizations
in history, literature and health ...*

Group discussion facilitates the understanding of characters from the past and present in literature. The students of Mrs. Fettig's Language Arts class meet new people of all times and places as they analyze literary works.

Developing good health habits is enhanced through study of the parts of the human body as Mr. Overmyer's students are doing. Reviewing past habits and results also helps impress the importance of health and personal care.

The industrial arts classes provide the boys with the opportunities to develop skills in building with wood and metal as well as to use and care for tools and equipment. These abilities may prove beneficial to them in future years of living more enjoyable lives.

... train in arts, crafts and homemaking for successful living in future generations ...

Some of Lane's students view and discuss some creations from the art classes. Exercising artistic talents provides students with opportunities to express themselves and develop abilities they may use for more colorful and enjoyable futures.

Girls in the home economics classes learn basics in cooking, sewing, buying, budgeting, family care and many more things to make their future lives as wives and mothers more successful and pleasant. They have the opportunities to actually use and "practice" much of this knowledge in Mrs. Barnard's classroom as these girls are doing.

*... and take time out for other adventures
as they explore
and search for learning.*

Lane students use the library for further research and recreation reading and to keep up with the world happenings, ...

... work off energy in the active physical education classes, ...

... even take time out to "goof off," ...

... do constructive (?) work, ...

... and put together the year's adventures for record in "The Axe and Shield" for 1967-68.

Faculty

Guide Lane explorers
in their journeys

Mr. McClain, principal, keeps busy in seeing that the school fulfills its purpose of education.

Mr. McClain, Mr. Karanovich set course to steer students in direction of knowledge

For the principal and his assistant, each school year begins even before the previous one ends. They must coordinate and set up each student's schedule for the following year. Then they must keep these schedules from conflict as enrollment fluctuates and changes are necessary. They must coordinate all school activities and in general keep the school running smoothly. They govern, rule, make necessary judgments and, if the need arises, use disciplinary measures to uphold the order essential for an atmosphere conducive to affective learning. They assist the teachers in any way they can, help the students, and aid the good communication among the parents, school, and community. In general they do everything possible to keep Lane Junior High School on the track of serving its most important purpose—that of education.

Mr. Karanovich, assistant principal, helps one of many students to plan some of his future activities.

Typing, filing, keeping records, and doing anything to keep the business and organizational end of the school running smoothly along with helping the faculty and students in doing their work effectively are the jobs of the secretarial and guidance staffs. They are assisted by student volunteers who run errands and do odd jobs that save the staff members much valuable time.

Mrs. Betty Johnson and Mrs. Evelyn Crandall keep the business office operating effectively.

Secretaries, guidance personnel keep order and all running smoothly toward more learning

Mr. Dan Kaufman and Mrs. Mary Jo Briggs spend many hours of each day counseling students concerning their classes, schedules, future plans, and some of their problems.

Some of the many students who volunteer their study period time to helping the staff members are (ROW 1) P. Haifley, L. Groves, B. Evans, J. Bostick, C. Swearingen, S. Lotter, L. Murphy, (ROW 2) M. Wernz, D. Pinkham, C. Brown, D. Jeffery, P. Shepard, K. Hawk, D. Avers, L. Curtis, and K. Stanberry.

The norseman, the axe and shield staffs log lane citizens and year's events

Publications students have lots of pictures to take and identify, interviews to hold, copy to write, editing to do, and deadlines to meet in putting out the monthly paper and annual Axe and Shield. These dedicated, busy students develop an alertness for interesting news and events and learn the problems, fundamentals, and techniques of journalism. Many of them also spend much time on copy and proof reading, layouts, and typing necessary to a yearbook and a newspaper.

The Axe and Shield staff includes (SEATED) L. Kortz, A. Richardson, J. Blackwell, B. Skinner, (ROW 1) R. Harrah, L. Bopp, B. Bopp, M. Troviner, D. Venderly, Y. Jornod, K. Libka, D. Denny, J. Viking grid team defeats foreigners for 1967 city championship title

The Viking varsity had a very successful season on the gridiron. Although seemingly down in their second and third attempts when they acquired their two consecutive ties, they countered by winning their next four games, including the city championship by beating a surprised Geyer team 7 to 0. The team effort was the decisive factor in this great season. Another big factor behind the mighty team and winning season was the excellent coaching by the greatest Vikings of them all, Coach Welborn and his assistants. A hearty congratulations goes to the Varsity Vikings of 1967.

Reserve squad overcomes opposition for 1967 city co-championship

The eighth grade football team had a very successful year, excluding their loss to Portage during the city play-offs in the rain on a flooded field.

According to Coach Kramer, the team had both good speed and balance. The students and staff congratulate the team for the eighth grade division title they won for Lane. All are looking forward to a great season next year as they become the 1968 Varsity Vikings.

Coach Kramer's Varsity Vikings compiled a 4—9 record this season. The team had good potential but it was never fully expressed. The squad lost many close games by slim margins and usually in the closing minutes. Although the team was really "up" for their first tourney game with rival Lakeside, their hopes were crushed by a 47—40 loss. Their best showing during the season was that of the Fairfield game when they came from behind to tie the game with seven seconds remaining. In the overtime they lost by a close score of 57—52. That was the closest that any team came to the city championship Fairfield team all year.

Reserve squad battles but loses

The Eighth Grade Basketball Team had something just less than a disastrous season. In the ten games played, the team won only two. In the two winning contests the team did look very good. This particular team rarely started any scoring rallies until the second half had begun. This, unfortunately, was usually too late. However, with the playing experience, they are looking forward to a much better season next year as the Varsity.

Lane grapplers take city title

The ninth grade Wrestling team consists of (ROW 1) B. Anderson, D. Schinnerer, D. Cooper, K. Sprague, C. Roe, T. Coil, D. Glant, J. Welch, (ROW 2) J. Dye, M. Usher, D. Stump, T. Bauerle, K. Stickler, T. Syers, M. Norris, P. Cleary, (ROW 3) S. Kulesza, captain B. Skinner, C. Niccum, R. Reincke, C. Hill, M. Cleary, T. Wulpi, and Coach Welborn.

The Wrestling Team had a tremendous season finishing it up appropriately by winning the City Championship. They lost only two dual meets during the entire season. Their coach, Mr. Welborn, was the biggest factor in their wins with the exception of the boys themselves. Conditioning and inspiration also played large parts in taking the city title. In the twelve final matches, Lane had eight men remaining. These were Kevin Sprague, Dave Schinnerer, Tom Wulpi, Dan Higgins, Mike Cleary, Pat Cleary, Randy Reinke, and the team captain Bruce Skinner. All but Wulpi and Higgins captured a first place ribbon.

Seventh grade Vikings hopefully prepare for future successes as future Viking teams

The Seventh Grade Basketball Squad had a weak record of 0—6. The team had good speed, but lacked height in all respects. Their best showing was in the Franklin game when they pushed the Chiefs into an overtime. With growth these boys should show good promise in the years to come.

The Seventh Grade Football Team had a winning team with a record of 2—1. This team extended a Lane record of having ten football teams and none of them have had a losing season. The team had good depth and good speed. Coach Habeggar, in his first year of coaching football at Lane, must be credited with producing a fine team with great promise.

Eighth grade wrestlers show promise

Members of the eighth grade wrestling squad are (ROW 1) B. Shenfeld, G. Goldsberry, T. Kelly, D. Van Anda, R. Dolson, D. Snowball, V. Fieldon, (ROW 2) M. Adams, M. Balay, K. Witwer, B. Lilly, S. Knight, D. Stonebarger, and Coach Welborn.

The Eighth Grade Wrestling Team went undefeated in the four meets that they entered. These boys practiced hard three nights a week and much of their improvement came from an extensive weight program and learning from the City Championship upperclassmen team. As ninth grade wrestlers next year they are looking forward to a tremendous season.

The Viking Cross Country Team, which trains as soon as school begins in September, competes with other schools in running a rough two-mile course in their fall meets. The 1967 team of Lane consists of (ROW 1) P. Van Scoik, G. Kurtz, D. Ruble, C. Roe, D. Stump, B. Anderson, coach Mr. Smith, (ROW 2) T. Levy, S. Krieg, T. Yoder, J. Disbro, L. Anderson, and R. Putt.

Cross country team runs difficult course; cheerleaders back teams throughout conflicts

The girls selected by the student body to be cheerleaders for the athletic contests in Norseman territory practice hard under the direction of their sponsors so that they may lead the students in active and loud support of their teams. They strive to build school spirit, pride, and good sportsmanship and inspire strong support of the Vikings as they defend the school on field, floor, and track.

The eighth grade cheerleaders who lead the backing of the Reserve Viking team are (KNEELING) Sue Johnson, Laurie Marfield, Linda Bopp (STANDING) Beth Brenizer, Mrs. Allender, sponsor, and Donna Stillman.

The ninth grade yell leaders who support the spirit of the spectators and inspire the cheers for the Varsity Vikings in all their home games are (KNEELING) Pam Eby, (STANDING) Patti Mullen, Ann Barch, Miss Lahr, sponsor, Peg Kindy, and Janet Davis.

The boys' intramural group consists of boys with extra interest and ability in athletics. It especially provides a chance to compete in sports to those boys not able to participate as a member of any of the varsity or reserve teams. It also gives those on any of the teams an opportunity to compete in other sports too.

The girls' intramural group is made up of girls with a great interest and ability in games, sports, and general physical conditioning and activity. It is from this group that the girls' intramural basketball, volleyball, and track teams are selected. This year's basketball team, coached by Miss Lahr, had an undefeated season.
